State vs. Anna Felch, Murder Case, to Come Up at June Term of Court.

The drawing of the petit jury for the June term of Orange county court has been delayed somewhat awaiting the decision of the supreme court in the case brought to test the validity of the act passed by the recent legislature creating a jury commission in each county, whose duty it is to select the names of jurors from each town in the county to be placed in the jury box from which are drawn the jurors. The supreme court handed down its decision the first of the week upholding the act as good law and on Tuesday Sheriff Reed at the office of the county clerk drew the following list of jurors for the June term, who are summoned to appear at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday, June 11, at which time the jury work will be taken up: Bradford, Harvey W. Eaton and Wesley L. Doe; Brantree, S. A. Hutchinson and Charles Bent; Brookfield, A. E. Sargent and F. E. Richardson; Chelsea, Elgin D. Barnes and George L. Hayward; Corinth, E. F. Jewell and Charles L. Clark; Fairlee, Lee Andrews and W. C. Ordway; Newbury, Scott Fellows and Tait M. Ritchie; Orange, E. A. Cutler and C. W. Emerson; Randolph, H. M. Gaylord and A. A. Neibaur; Stratford, John Darling and Frank Cook; Thetford, J. G. French and Otis D. Bond; Topsham, Fred E. Bagley and William R. Hight; Tunbridge, George H. Granger and Harry O. The June term of court will be formally opened on the 5th day of June, when a recess will be taken until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon of June 11. The trial calendars for the June term show 17 cases set for trial by jury and nine cases set for trial by the court and in addition to the cases set for trial there will be a number of criminal cases for trial, chief among which is the case of State vs. Anna Felch, who will be tried for the murder of her husband, who was found dead in his sugar house in Topsham in April, 1916, having been shot through the head, and the respondent who has been confined in jail during the past year, is charged with having fired the fatal shot. There will also be a large number of divorce cases heard.

Miss Annie Sleeper of Rutland was a guest of her mother, Mrs. Abbie F. Sleeper, at her home on North Main street several days last week, as was also Milo L. Sleeper of Stratford over the week-end recess.

RANDOLPH

Miss Marion Nickerson the Bride of Bennett C. Hall.

The home of Mrs. Bertha Nickerson at Brantree was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday, May 31, when at noon her only daughter, Marion Tarbell, was united in marriage to Bennett C. Hall, son of Mrs. B. C. Hall of St. Albans. Rev. Fraser Metzger of Randolph was the officiating clergyman, who performed the single ring service in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bridal party, which consisted of the bride and groom, the former attended by Miss Winnifred S. Hall, a cousin of the bride, took their place before a bank of palms and pink roses, the color scheme in the room being pink. The bride was becomingly gowned in white and carried a shower bouquet of lilies and bride roses. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served, and the couple left for a short automobile trip, after which they will return and for the season will be at home at the Nickerson farm. The bride is well known in town, having formerly been in school here, and since that time has been often here passing several winters in town and has many friends who will wish for her much happiness, and be glad that she is still to be so near town.

The Red Cross mass meeting at Music hall was largely attended on Thursday night, and there was much interest and enthusiasm exhibited at the time. The principal speaker for the evening was Roderick Olundson, assistant secretary of Vermont chapter of Red Cross, who gave an interesting address, which was followed by addresses by Rev. M. S. O'Donnell and Rev. Fraser Metzger, both of whom gave excellent talks. Patriotic songs were sung by the audience, and with the cornets for leaders were very strong and inspiring. It is understood that more than three hundred have been secured for the society, and now the persons in charge are making an effort to bring it up to five hundred.

More Than 300 New Members Secured for Red Cross.

A large audience heard Senator Redfield Proctor expound Red Cross principles at the town hall last evening. He made some striking statements concerning conditions in the European war theatres, based on information obtained during a visit to Washington, D. C., this week. He praised the local campaign committee which already had secured more than 300 new members this week with another day to complete the work. Rev. W. C. Harvey presided, Rev. F. R. Dixon offered prayer, a group of girls from the seventh grade sang "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean," and Mrs. John Wilson read "The Kid Has Gone to the Colors." Edgar Middleton, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Middleton, and Harold Savage, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Savage, were seen walking into town yesterday morning at 4 o'clock by early users on South Main street. The boys, who had been close companions, had taken the evening train southbound last Wednesday and had continued their journey as far as Springfield, Mass., using the mileage which one of them had obtained from a broker on his father's account. It is believed that the Central Vermont mileage fell short just a little of bringing them home and that being without funds they were obliged to walk from South Royalton, seven miles from this place. They were missed by their parents late Wednesday night and as last January they had taken a much shorter railway journey together without notifying anybody it was rightly supposed that they had gone off on the train again.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ducharme Observed Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ducharme observed their 30th wedding anniversary at a grange hall here the evening of May 29, the celebration being a complete surprise to them. It was not until the evening before that their friends learned of the approaching anniversary, and plans were then hastened for making the affair as pretentious as the limited time would allow. More would have been present if word could have been more widely circulated, but as it was about 50 members of the grange gathered to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Ducharme on the event. After the friends had gathered at the hall, a messenger called Mr. and Mrs. Ducharme, who made haste to appear and take their places as guests of honor. An informal program, consisting of piano solos by Mrs. Florence Worcester, a reading by Mrs. D. S. Cutler and recitations by Misses Dorothy and Clara Cutler, was given and James Hill, the master of the grange, presented Mr. and Mrs. Ducharme a purse of money. Both responded appropriately. EAST MONTPELIER

The village schools have for many years held pre-Memorial exercises and when possible decorated the veterans' graves in the village cemetery. Money has been raised by the pupils for the purchase of a beautiful flag, which will be spread to the breezes with fitting exercises later.

WEEDS ENEMIES OF COMMISSARY

Every weed is an enemy of the "soldiers of the commissary" who are making gardens. All these troublesome vagrant plants, that gain footholds in the garden, forage upon the plant food and water which should be available to build up food plants. They stunt some vegetables by stealing their sustenance and crowd out and shade others. From morning until night weeds that are allowed to grow in a garden work steadily against the interests of the gardener; and the longer they are left undisturbed the greater becomes their capacity for harm.

Exit the Wooden Ship.

Whether or not the decision to abandon the plan for the construction of wooden ships is wise or not, it is certain that to go on with it after Gen. Goethals had showed lack of faith in it would have been unwise. He is to be given great powers, and at Panama he has shown ability to tackle a hard job and put it through; to get the best results he should be allowed to work out the problem in a way with which he has sympathy. If the decision had been reached that wooden ships were indispensable, the only satisfactory plan would have been to make a quite separate job of it, under the management of a man expert in the use of wood.

A few weeks ago there would have been strong grounds for taking this course. With losses of shipping double what had been figured on, no other considerations counted for much in comparison with the paramount need for the maximum construction of new ships. The wooden fleet might not be very good, and the ships surviving might be worth little after the war, but these objections urged by shipping interests, are insignificant if the fate of nations hangs on the new tonnage that can be turned out.

A somewhat different face is put on the question, however, by the encouraging figures of the past three weeks, showing a drop to practically the rate of destruction which had been counted upon. This allows a little more leeway, and with the co-operation of the steel men Gen. Goethals expects to turn out standardized ships at an increased rate.

which will about make good what is lost by abandoning the plan for a great wooden fleet. It is not to be supposed, however, that there is no loss, for whatever the volume of steel construction, the wooden ships were reckoned as supplementary. The case is simply that at present it seems safe to depend upon steel alone. If that is a wrong calculation it will be a tragic blunder, but undoubtedly if the steel ships suffice they will be more satisfactory, both during the war and for use afterward.—Springfield Republican.
